

A photograph of a historic building with a prominent dome and brickwork, likely the Denver's Old House Society building. The building is set against a light green background.

February 2009 Events

Denver's Old House Society is a new nonprofit dedicated to educating owners of old (50+) houses and helping them protect their neighborhoods.

Join Our Mailing List!

Brunch Tickets Still Available

Wouldn't You Just Die To Go In This House?

You Can This Saturday, Feb. 7!

Renowned Denver architect William Lang designed this country manse, built in 1886 on Berkley Hill, for the first Denver subdivision developer, Henry Wimbush, who had a circus at Berkley Park and donated land for Regis University. Learn about the restoration of this fabulous house and the history of Berkley Hill while you sip champagne, savor strawberries, consume chocolates, munch munchies and listen to Denver Auditor and north Denver historian and native son, Dennis Gallagher, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Tickets are limited, so get yours now for $20 per person. Country Manse

Saturday Morning Workshops Congress Park Feb. 21

What color should I paint my old house? Can these old windows be fixed, or should I get new ones? And, just what does economics and the environment have to do with my old house? These questions and more will be answered during our Saturday Morning Workshops February 21 at the Assistance League Auditorium, 1400 Josephine Street, from 9 a.m. to noon. If you have missed these popular topics brought to you by the Congress Park Historic Preservation Speakers Series on Wednesday evenings during select months of the year, you won't want to miss them this Saturday morning. Exhibitors will be available, too, to answer questions about products and services for old houses. The ticket cost is $10, payable at the door or online. Seating is limited. Parking is available on the north side of the property. Workshops

Reminder

First Old House Fair Coming May 2, 2009

Just imagine - potentially all of your old house "challenges" could be solved in one day at a fun event at a location in one of Denver's grand old neighborhoods! It's a real possibility at the Denver Old House Fair scheduled for Saturday, May 2, 2009, at the historic Highland Masonic Temple Center, 3550 Federal Boulevard, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. The cost is $10 per person, payable at the door. For more information, go to www.denversoldhousesociety.org

Workshops will offer information from renowned experts on a variety of topics. Architects will be available all day to answer space questions. At the numerous displays of products and services for old houses, exhibitors can help solve that "old-house challenge." Information will be available about protecting old neighborhoods from scrap-offs and Denver's new zoning code, Blueprint Denver. There will be lots of free goodies, including copies of the latest "Style 1900" magazine.

Tours of the historic Highlands Masonic Temple Center will begin at 10 a.m. and at 2 p.m. The building has been a treasured northwest Denver landmark for over 90 years!
Fair

www.denversoldhousesociety.org